Experts Believe Russians Intend to Meet Admiral Togo and Fight.

Clash to Occur in Formosa or Korean Strait.

Difficult to Locate Is Battleship's Division of Baltic Fleet * 4. --- Admiralty Professes Ignorance--- Japs to Have Million Men in Manchuria by Fall.

Washington, April 11.-It is thoroughly believed by officers of the American navy, and especially by those connected with the naval bureau of intelligence, who have made a careful study of the recent developments in far Eastern waters, that Admiral Rojestvensky intends to meet the Japanese fleet under Admiral Togo, and give battle. While the location of Admiral Togo is problematical, the concensus of opinion here is that his ships are distributed between the strait of For-mosa and the strait of Korea. It is expected that the battle will take place in one of these places, probably the

Owing to the strict injunction of silence regarding affairs in the far East, placed upon them by the president, naval officers while willing to discuss the situation informally, refuse to allow their names to be used. One prominent officer who is as well versed in the far Eastern situation, as any in the American navy, said this morning:

"Rojestvensky will surely fight. He has now gone entirely too far to recede and it is evident that he has received orders from St. Petersburg to risk all by bringing his immense fleet into combat with the fleet of Togo. Whether it is the intention of the Russian commander to attempt to delay the engagement, pending the arrival in about three weeks of the remainder of his fleet under the command of Vice Admiral Niebogatoff, is, of course, problematical, but I hardly believe that such is his purpose. Nominally, the strength of the fleet with Rojestvenskyand that supposed to be under the command of Togo is about the same, but from my point of view the Japanese have a signal advantage in that their men are all tried veterans whose morale is not exceeded in any navy in the world, while the Russians are untried, a majority of them never having been under fire.

"Naturally the objective of the Russian fleet is Vladivostok, and the engagement will have to take place somewhere off the coast of China, between Singapore and the sea of Japan.

"It seems probable that the Russian commander will have his fleet rendezvous in the gulf of Tong-Kin, which is filled with small islands. The question is whether he will deem it best to wait in that gulf where it would not be practicable for the Japanese to attack until the arrival of the other squadron of his fleet or whether he will put out to sea and meet the Japanese at some place of their selecting.

"I believe the battle will take place, either in the strait of Formosa or in the Korean strait. The Japanese torpedo boat fleet is unquestionably now lying in wait at the torpedo naval station in the Pescadores islands in the strait of Formosa. The remainder of the Japanese vessels are probably in the East China sea, between Formosa and Japan. As the Japanese are in position to fight on ground of their own choosing it would seem natural to suppose that the battle will occur at some point near a Japanese naval station, where disabled ships can put in for repairs

"The battle will probably begin with an attack at some unexpected time by the fleet of Japanese torpedo crafts. Togo aparently a great believer in the efficiency of the little vessels. The main fleet will be engaged soon afterwards, and for the first time in the history of modern navies the world will have an opportunity to see two immense, evenly matched, fleets, consisting of vessels of all modern type engage in a battle to the death. Both Japan and Russia realize that the results of this fight will determine which nation will be victor in the far Eastern war. Both nations realize the big stake at issue, and while no one is now able to predict the result of one thing, you may be certain: The fight will be to a finish."

SMITH AND WIFE AGREE TO GO EAST WITHOUT TROUBLE

PATTERSON CASE WITNESSES ARE TO FACE ONLY A SIN-GLE CHARGE.

When Assurances Were Given Prisoners at Cincinnati They Waived Extradition.

Cincinnati, O., April 11,---J. Morgan

Smith and wife, the missing witnesses in the Nan Patterson case, left here for New York city. When the habeas corpus hearing was called Attorney Cogan, partner of Thomas F. Shay, who has heretofore acted for the Smiths, appeared before Judge Spiegel and announced that J. Morgan Smith and his wife were perfectly willing to return to New York without further opposition to the extradition proceedings if proper ssurances were given that their presence there had only to do with the indictment for conspiracy, and that they would not, while in New York, be called on to answer or appear in any other case. This promise was made by Assistant District Attorney Garvan, and the habeas corpus proceeding was attonce dropped, and arrangements were made for an early departure for New York, where they expect to arrive early Tuesday evening. In United States court Broker J. W. Ballman, whose contempt case and the contempt charges against Attorney Shay had at one time threatened to delay further the extradition of the Smiths, refused once more to give up his cashbook or to answer the questions of the grand jury, and he was therefore adjudged in contempt of court and ordered committed to jail. The case against Attorney Shay was then taken up. Lawrence Maxwell, Jr., who took Shay's place as attorney for Ballman when Shay was himself made defendant in contempt charges, announced that he would immediately appeal to the United States circuit court. The appleal took the form of an application for a writ of habeas cor pus, which was granted by Circuit

District Attorney Says Conviction Will Put Check to Vast System of Blackmail.

"We are not so much interested in the conviction of Nan Patterson, because of her particular offense, but for posed of vessels withdrawn from the the reason that it will put a check to a vast system of blackmail that is being tried against prominent men in New York since the killing of Caesar Young, Hundreds of women who have been involved in affairs with men of wealth and standing, and who had supposed that the oportunities for mulcting them had passed, have been encouraged to attempt to bleed their former victims again. More than 1,000 letters have been turned over to District Attorney Jerome which were received by rich men from women. In some of these letters the would-be blackmailers threaten that they will Nan Pattersonize the victim if the money demanded is not forthcoming. To break up this practice Mr. Jerome and his assistants feel that an example must be made of Nan Patterson. We have the sympathy of the community in this matter, and the result of Nan's next trial will be very important as far as New York city is concerned.

Suit for Damages.

Myrtle Ruth Brown, an infant, by Lucy E. Brown, her next friend, has commenced suit in the Common Pleas court against the Columbus, Buckeye Lake and Newark Traction company for $1,999.99 for damages. The plaintiff says that last Decem-her she was a passenger on one of the cars of the defendant to be carried to the interurban station of the defendant in Newark. Plaintiff says that when the car reached the station at Newark she proceeded to alight, but by reason of her childhood, and the height of the lower step from the car to the street, and by reason of negligence, she fell, striking the ground on her right leg, and broke, twisted and strained her right knee, so that she became sick, and was ill for more than two months, and that she is still unable to pursue her ordinary concerns. That since said injury she has not had the use of her injured leg, and cannot move about except on crutches; that the injury is permanent, and that she has been damaged in the sum of $1999.99, for which sum she asks judgment. Hunter & Hunter, attorneys for the plaintiff.

Pratt was the defendant in a minor legal proceeding, and was acting as his own attorney. He grew abusive. Judge Handlin then cast aside the judicial ermine and stepped down from the bench. Pratt was no match for the judge and was soon worsted. He emerged from the conflict with two black eyes and numerous other wounds.

Attorneys and spectators who were in the room at the time made no effort i to interfere with Judge Handlin. Judge Handlin resumed his seat on the bench after the dust of battle had cleared away and handed down a judgment against Pratt in the case at the bar.

PASSENGERS ARE VICTIMS OF A COLLISION IN WEST.

Chicago Express and Santa Fe Limited in Wreck in Kansas-Freight Train Ditched.

Kinsdale, Kan., April 11.—Twenty or more passengers were injured, but and heals the diseased none killed, by a collision of the Chi-cago express and California limited away a Cold in the trains on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad. Both trains were eastbound. No. 8, the Chicago express, was standing at the station, when No. 4, the limited, crashed into it at high speed. The engine of the second train plowed into the last Pullman sleeper of the other train, demolishing it. The cars in front also were badly damaged and the limited's locomotive and part of that train wrecked. The railroad officials put the injured in a car and took them to the west end of the yards. The rear car on No. 8 was a deadhead chair car. This was cut through from end to end by the heavy engine and the Pullman ahead of this was thrown off the track. Both immediately took fire and, with the chair and mail cars, were entirely consumed. The engineer of No. 4 is uninjured, but the fireman is seriously hurt, as is also a porter on No. 8 and a cook on the limited. The collision was caused, it is said, by the rear brakeman of No. 8 not going back to flag No.4.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

In Honor of Walter Kussmaul's Eleventh Birthday Anniversary Mon-

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kussmaul gave a party at their home, 270 Elmwood avenue, on Monday evening in honor of their 11-year-old son, Walter Kussmaul. The affair was in the nature of a surprise, and when about twenty-five of the little friends of Walter called in Engine 1902 was ordered to the the evening he was totally unprepared for their coming, and was greatly surprised. However, he soon regalned his composure, and did his utmost to entertain his self-invited guests. One of the features of the occasion was the sumptuous supper that had been prepared by Mrs. Kussmaul, and of which all partook most heartily. A large cake containing eleven burning candles, was one of the pretty decorations on the table. After supper the remainder of the evening was pleasant spent in games of all kinds, and when the merry crowd broke up and all left for their several homes it was with the wish that Walter might celebrate more of his birthday anniversaries as happily.

How British Cities Manage Public Utilities

Liverpool's Experience as Owner and Operator of Its Street Railways and Electric Lighting and Power Industry

By FREDERICK UPHAM ADAMS

[Copyright, 1994, by Frederick Upham Adams]

EYOND all question transportation occupies first place among the municipal problems now commanding attention in Great Britain. Liverpool was one of the pioneers in tramway construction, though it was only recently that the municipality came into full possession of tramway-properties. Its experience with the boasted English conservatism is fairly typical. After George Franris Train and other Americans had demonstrated at Birkenhead, a suburb M. Liverpool, the practicability of tramways the city authorized a company, to use its streets for that purpose. This was in 1869. Four years lèter the service was so insufficient that the city served notice on the company to remove its tracks. Subsequently a compromise was made by which the city reconstructed the lines at the cost of the company. In 1879 the company entered into an agreement with the city under which the latter purchased the existing lines for $150,000 and completed various other lines, leasing the whole system to the bination. It was therefore decided to combany at a rental of 71/2 per cent on the purchase money from the date of construction, the lines to be maintained at the cost of the city. In 1895 the city made a lease to the company extending until 1915, but reserved the right to purchase under certain condi-

· Two years later the patience of Liverpool was exhausted. The company utterly failed to properly manage its affairs. Its rates were extortionate and its service worse. It absolutely refayed to introduce mechanical or electrical power, and after due deliberation the city decided to acquire and operate the undertaking. Parliament granted the power, and in 1897 the entire system passed into the hands of the minicipal authorities, the purchase price being about $2,800,000.

The city went about the tramway enterprise in a thorough business way. It proceeded to engage the services of C. R. Bellamy, one of the foremost of English civil and mechanical engineers, a man fully conversant with the science and practice of transportation on both sides of the Atlantic. In two years' time the hundred miles of horse car tracks had been transformed to electrical traction, and in addition there had been laid forty miles of new ning at long intervals, there was installed a system which in all respects compares favorably with the best modern practice in the United States or on the continent. More than that, the city made a sweeping reduction in the rates of fare.

It reduced the hours of its conductors and motormen from eighty to sixty a week and actually paid them more for the shorter hour day than they had forměrly been receiving. The private company sold the men's uniforms and réceived a tidy profit from the transaction. The city gave uniforms to its men and only insisted that they keep thèm elean and in good repair, so as to reflect credit on their employer.

The first year of electrical traction and of a trial of all of those radical refőrms was 1901, and when all expenses had been paid there remained a profit of more than $700,000. The best the private company had been able to show with its high fares, low wages and niggardly policy was $184,000. After paying into the sinking fund, meeting in-000 for renewals and depreciation there remained a large sum.

The profits for the second year were $865,000, an increase over the preceding year of $165,000. The tramways department contributed $125,000 of this to the general tax fund.

In addition to its voluntary contribution to the general fund the municipal trainway pays its taxes just as if it were a private corporation. This practice is common with the municipal enterprises of all cities in Great Britain. Municipal tenements and cottages. municipal gas plants and electrical lighting and power stations, tramways, markets and all other revenue seeking a living by working for it in a score of institutions pay not only city but also income taxes. Last year Liverpool's tramways poid in taxes a sum exceeding-$65,000. The city owns the electrical power plant, but the tramways department was charged with every unit of power it used. It therefore

The city would obtain its light and power at cost, private users would receive theirs at a minimum advance over the actual cost, and manufacturers and merchants would therefore have an advantage over outside competitors, who were compelled dends to private owners of light and power plants. Again, the surplus profits would go to the relief of tax rates, thereby making the circle of economy

Immediately after the acquiring of this property the tramways also came into the possession of the city, and the question arose whether or not to make one generating system serve for all purposes. The opinions of experts were called for. It was the consensus of opinion that a pressure of 500 volts would enable the same plant to be used for lighting and traction and that there would be a distinct gain as regards first cost, management, economy and surplus power attained by com-

England has learned to use the refuse swept from the streets for fuel. Several small power stations deriving their power from the burning of the refuse are now in successful operation, and it is expected men and women in the world's affairs that the total supply from this source will reach 10,000 horsepower. A few years ago Liverpool spent large sums of money for the purpose of throwing not obtain lists of the living from the this material and its stored up energy various college catalogues, open active away. Liverpool has invested $7,500,000 in her electrical plant. The profits for the year ended on Jan. 1, 1903, were in round figures $500,000. After meeting all charges and setting aside a libera amount for renewals and depreciation the electrical department made a contribution of $60,000 to the tax fund. It also paid $33,000 as its share of the take place Thursday in the coming of taxes. The amount written off for bad debts was less than $1,500.

At the present time it is likely that Liverpool's investment in its combined tramway and electrical plant will reach $20,000,000. Liverpool is an example of what it is possible to accomplish in a short time. It is only seven years ago that the city essaved this stupendons experiment in public ownership. It is only fair to observe that the benefits derived from reduced rates and improved services far outweigh the direct money profits. As the interto yet further decrease the price of the relief of taxes.

Liverpool is a rich and a great city, with broad, well paved streets, magnifiand a progressive and enterprising administration. It is one of the world's most opulent property owners. Exclusive of its streets, parks and its interest in the miles of docks; it owns property which has a market price of between $85,000,000 and $90,000,000.

One may be born in a Liverpool municipal hospital, be educated and trained in its schools and colleges, may earn capacities; he may live in a house the rent of which goes to the city as his landlord; he may retire on a municipal pension, may die and be cremated lat public expense, or his hones may of this is possible despite the fact that house. Granville, O., April 11--It has been suggested by a number of friends that the management of the Granville Centennial should give special attention to the feature of class reumons during the centennial next fall. It has been strongly urged that a good system of class reunions would greatly increase the attendance and the interest of the coming centennial and would undoubtedly do both. For over sixty years investigation of Transportation and Denison university has been sending a class of graduates out into the world, and the two ladies' colleges have been doing the same for almost as long. The graduates of these three institutions will probably reach in to the thou sands. They are scattered all over the country, and many are in foreign parts. The relation of the total production of crude oil to the demand is naturally a very important matter in this investigation.' The Standard Oil company seems to have raised the cry of overproduction as a defense against the charges, and this claim is one of the things that we will go into very carefully. It is not our intention to take anything for granted. We expect to make an investigation of the freight and other transportation questions in connection with our inquiry regarding of 26 cents from each member to be the price of crude oil. The matter of using these quarterly dues of 25 cents, payable in statistics and other facts to the best advance advantage is something that President Roosevelt and his advisers are studying very carefully, and their conclusions will have great bearing on the whole corporation question. I will state there is one thing in connection with an investigation of this character that the public seems to overlook. The fact that the profits resulting from a price fixed through an agreement are small is not material. Cincinnati Boys Will Go to Vicksburg Battlefield in May at Its Own Adjutant General Critchfield states that the Fourth regiment, including Company G of Newark, will camp at the state encampment grounds at Newark the week beginning July 9.

The Thompson law, enacted last spring, provides that troops of the Guard may camp outside the state at state expense.

This law was passed at the instance of General Critchfield in order to prevent the recurrence of such an embarrassment as was occasioned in 1899, when Governor Bushnell and John R. McLean of Cincinnati advanced the funds to send the Fourth regiment to New York, to take part in the Dewey reception.

However, the First is going to Vicks burg at its own expense. That is, the state will pay only the substance and home as an actress has caused not a per diem which would be paid if the regiment camped in Ohio. All the extra cost will be paid out of the regiment's own funds

Tonight at This Church Rev. G. T. Nichols of Columbus Will Speak.

Rev. Hervey C. Colburn of Columbus, gave a magnificent address at the First Congregational church Monday evening. His topic was "A Twentieth Century Pilgrim Church." He spoke of the principles that led the Pilgrims to come to this country, chief among them being their love of liberty and right. These principles should be prominent in the church life of today. Referring to the gift of John D. Rockefeller to the American board, he strongly condemned the methods by which his wealth had been accumulated, and declared that the money ought not to be accepted. Mr. Martin Goss sang "The Holy City" in fine style. Tonight at 7:30 o'clock Rev. G. T. Nichols of Columbus, will speak. His topic will be "The Young People and the Church." Mrs. Ditter will sing. Everybody is invited.
